Donors make life-changing programs possible

In 2013, Toronto's Library shone brightly thanks to the tremendous support of our outstanding donors. Across 99 branches and in every corner of Toronto, Toronto Public Library helped to grow a city of readers, develop a city of learners and connect a city of creators – the three pillars of the Library's strategic plan.

It wouldn't be possible to meet these objectives without the generous, far-thinking people who give to the Toronto Public Library Foundation. In 2013, individuals, corporations, foundations and associations gave a total of $4,142,261 – funds that were essential to providing exemplary collections, supporting groundbreaking programs and services and creating innovative community spaces at Toronto Public Library.

This report highlights the many activities, programs, events, services, collections and spaces that the Library's extraordinary donors helped make possible in 2013. To all those who gave – thank you.

Growing a City of Readers

Donors help Toronto Public Library grow a city of readers. Thanks to donors, the Library is fostering literacy and a love of reading among all Torontonians. In 2013, donors supported reading outreach programs and access to reading materials in a variety of formats. Following are a few of the many programs made possible by our generous donors.

Supporting early literacy through Let's Get Ready for Reading

During the summer of 2013, the Toronto Public Library Foundation ran a special campaign to raise money for Ready for Reading collections. Thanks to 150 generous donors, we raised more than $11,000. In 2013, Toronto kids checked out books from the Ready for Reading collection almost two million times! Since 2007, Library donors have contributed more than $1.3 million to the program.

Reading starts at the Library's KidsStops

Kids across Toronto love the Library thanks to generous donors such as Canada Post Community Foundation, which in 2013 contributed $50,000 toward a KidsStop location at the busy Fairview Branch.

KidsStops are literacy-rich interactive children's learning centres at eight branches within Toronto's 99-branch library system. They are bright and welcoming family destinations designed to excite the imagination and sense of play in a preschool child. Children and caregivers play and learn together in an environment that supports reading readiness.

KidsStop at Fairview Branch

The Fairview location was the first KidsStop location in north-east Toronto. It quickly became a popular space, with hundreds of children and parents visiting each month. The Fairview branch attracts more than 400,000 visits a year.

The Foundation is also extremely grateful to Baxter Graham Bonnell; $35,000 from his bequest to the Library was dedicated to the Fairview KidsStop. Other generous contributors included Cadillac Fairview and the Estate of Grace Chellam, who both contributed $5,000 toward the Fairview project. Sophie's Studio – a legacy of the late, loyal donor Sophie Lucyk – continued to support the Library's KidsStops with another contribution of $25,000 in support of the KidsStops at the Fairview and Bloor/Gladstone branches.

Exploring books with the TD Summer Reading Club

Supported by TD Bank Group, the TD Summer Reading Club is an inclusive, bilingual program created by Toronto librarians and delivered by public libraries across Canada. The program engages children in the joy of reading during the summer months with programming that invites them into their local branches and makes literacy fun. The TD Summer Reading Club helps children succeed in school and sets them up to become engaged, lifelong readers. In 2013, TD made a very generous donation of $679,000.

Thanks to TD's unwavering support, the TD Summer Reading Club has thrived since it was created in 1996. In 2013, children in 1,986 library locations across Canada participated in the program, whose theme was "Go!". Club members were encouraged to "travel" and explore their neighbourhoods - and the world afar - through their summer activities in the library, outside, online and through their reading.

Online space deepens teens' enjoyment of reading

The Library is tremendously grateful to TD Bank Group for its support of Word Out, a virtual summer book club for teens. Complementing its support for the TD Summer Reading Club, TD Bank Group supplied funding for staffing, promotion and a series of events across Toronto. TD supported Word Out with a donation of $80,000 in 2013.

Hosted on the Toronto Public Library website, Word Out provides book suggestions and a digital space in which youth ages 12 and up can socialize, meet authors and share ideas about books and reading. Participation in 2013 was enthusiastic, with more than 21,000 people visiting the site. Many branches hosted wrap-up parties so teen readers could meet in person and continue the conversations they started online.

Dial-a-Story moves Toronto's Library beyond its walls

Dial-a-Story is available in branches and from any telephone.

Thanks to a wonderful $4,000 gift from the Josephine Henderson Foundation, Toronto Public Library's Dial-a-Story program expanded into a 16th language (Persian, with 19 stories available) and added 12 new English, 11 new Spanish and six new Portuguese stories for a total of 654. Dial-a-Story is a free, multilingual telephone story program. Children of all ages can experience the wonder of stories just by dialing 416-395-5400.

Dial-a-Story is available in branches and from any telephone.

Elementary School Outreach

In 2013, the Friends of Toronto Public Library, South Chapter donated an outstanding $50,000 toward the Grade Four Outreach program. At that age, children are starting to transition from learning to read, to reading to learn. It is essential that kids experience the joy of reading during this formative stage. Thanks to the Friends' generous gift, grade four students will receive packages to make reading exciting and encourage them to visit the Library to discover books they love.

Books take to the road with Mobile Library Services

In 2013, The Catherine and Maxwell Meighen Foundation made a remarkable gift of $60,000 to support the Library's Home Library Service and Bookmobiles.

The Home Library Service delivers a variety of materials to Toronto residents who are homebound due to age, illness or disability. In 2013, this free program delivered 400,000+ items to nearly 3,000 patrons, including more than 13,000 house visits by Library staff. The service added almost 8,000 new titles to its collection.

The Library's two Bookmobiles serve high-needs locations.

Similarly, the Library's two Bookmobiles received over 30,000 visits at 30 high-needs locations in Toronto, bringing more than 130,000 items to thousands of people who otherwise would have limited access to a Library branch. In 2013, the Bookmobiles served nearly 3,900 people and added 3,800 new titles to their collection.

Breaking the cycle of illiteracy

A long-time champion of literacy programs, Great-West Life, London Life and Canada Life committed $40,000 in 2012 and 2013 to family literacy programs at Toronto Public Library. This contribution helps to break the cycle of illiteracy by promoting learning and reading as a family activity and by strengthening the bond between adult learners and their children.

Adult education has always been a priority at Toronto Public Library. The Library's 10 adult literacy offices provide free, one-on-one tutoring in basic reading, writing and math to 340 clients per year. Thanks to generous funding from Great-West Life, London Life and Canada Life, the Library explored a new model in which Library staff and tutors collaborate with adult literacy clients and their families using the Library's Ready for Reading program.

The program addresses parents' and children's literacy simultaneously. A parent's struggles with literacy often negatively impact their children. Thanks to Great-West Life's support, this program can break the dangerous cycle of family illiteracy, offering those children the best possible chance to become literate themselves.

Book Bash! celebrates Canadian children's literature

The Muller Scholastic Endowment Fund for Canadian Children's Literature provides up to $15,000 in funding for Book Bash!, a celebration with some of Canada's best-loved children's authors and illustrators. A selection committee chooses a winning library to host this free, fun-filled children's festival. It features an all-star cast of authors and illustrators who participate together in a variety of activities and programs to instill a love of reading in young children.

In 2013, Book Bash! was held outside Toronto for the first time, at the Grande Cache Municipal Library in Grande Cache, Alberta.

Rare children's books digitized

Thanks to an extraordinary $250,000 gift from the Estate of Thomas James Winston Taylor, more than 1,000 rare and historic children's books from the Library's Osborne Collection of Early Children's Books will be digitized for universal access.

The Osborne Collection of Early Children's Books has over 80,000 rare and notable modern children's books. It spans literary classics to popular culture. The oldest artefacts in the Collection are cuneiform tablets dating from 2000 B.C.E., while modern books are added to become objects of study, admiration and amusement by future generations.

Developing a City of Learners

Thanks to donor support, Toronto Public Library is developing a city of learners. Gifts allow Toronto Public Library to provide opportunities for learning beyond formal education, and to make those opportunities available wherever and whenever there is a desire to learn. Here are some of the programs donors helped make possible in 2013.

TD Friends of the Environment

Thanks to TD Friends of the Environment and its $13,000 grant, the Library delivered a series of nine all-ages workshops on green living and environmental issues. The Green Program Series covered climate change, clean water, Toronto's tree canopies, community gardening, environmental hazards, community clean-ups and other topics. The grant from TD Friends of the Environment helped to expand these programs, enhance the promotional efforts and improve the Library's collection of related books and e-books at the branches where the workshops were held.

Supporting small business and would-be entrepreneurs

Thousands of Library users benefited from a remarkable gift from the Estate of Norman G. Hinton during Small Business Month in 2013. Throughout the month, the Library held coordinated programs across Toronto Public Library branches. Entrepreneur-in-residence Jean Chow, principal of Ms. BizWhiz and a successful food industry entrepreneur, gave several presentations and met individually with 42 would-be entrepreneurs to review their business plans and ideas. Many Toronto Public Library branches held workshops and programs to educate Library users on personal finance, business planning and various aspects of marketing a small business.

Money matters: learning about personal finance

In addition to supporting small business, Norman G. Hinton was also keenly interested in personal finance, and believed the Library has a role to play in helping individuals learn about investing. His generosity, through his bequest, helped fund personal finance courses given during Toronto Public Library's inaugural Money Matters month in February 2013. Coinciding with the RRSP deadline and approaching tax season, the campaign raised public awareness about the Library's many collections, programs and services available to support financial literacy and personal finance. The program's goal was to foster financial literacy and encourage lifelong learning.

RBC's generosity keeps after-school newcomer hubs open

Toronto Public Library has three After School Newcomer Hubs that help orient youth who are new to Toronto and ease their transition to school. Three nights a week, youth in grades seven to 10 receive homework assistance in English, French, math, science and other subjects.

In 2013, RBC Foundation stepped in with a $40,000 gift to help keep the hubs open. RBC Foundation's generosity means youth in these high-needs areas of Toronto have access to academic support, leadership opportunities, career path advice and most importantly, a safe place to go and someone to talk to as they find their way in a new country.

Connecting a City of Innovators, Entrepreneurs and Creators

Thanks to donors, Toronto Public Library is able to catalyze and connect a city of innovators, entrepreneurs and creators. In supporting the Library, donors are helping Torontonians participate in today's knowledge economy through better access to culture, ideas and business-building resources. Here are some of the programs that donors helped make possible in 2013.

TD Gallery brings Canada's cultural heritage to life

Flight: A Thrilling History of an Idea was one of several exhibits hosted at TD Gallery.

On the main floor of the Toronto Reference Library, the TD Gallery frequently hosts exhibitions from the Library's Special Collections, which document Canada's cultural history, including the early exploration of the North. Thanks to TD's steadfast support, the Library redesigned and expanded the gallery as part of the re:vitalize campaign. Its 2013 shows included Royal Fanfare, exhibiting engravings, photographs, souvenirs and games from royal celebrations from the 16th to the 20th century; Adventures with Sherlock Holmes, including rare books, manuscripts and fascinating details about the great detective; War Stories, which featured first-hand accounts of the War of 1812-1814; and Flight: A Thrilling History of an Idea, which explored the history of aviation through storybooks, paintings, model inventions and machines.

Intellectual discourse at the branch level

A generous donation from the Black Family Foundation allowed Toronto Public Library to greatly expand its Thought Exchange programming in 2013. This 'ideas' program brings experts to Library branches city-wide, delivering university-calibre learning to the intellectually curious from all walks of life. The result was a rich and varied selection of topics and speakers that extended to branches across the city. This donation supported 42 events which were attended by 2,372 people.

Extraordinary gift establishes world-class lecture series

2013 saw the first annual Bluma Lecture, featuring Pulitzer Prize winners Sheryl WuDunn and Nicholas Kristof. Named in honour of Toronto philanthropist Bluma Appel and funded by a transformational $1 million gift from The Bluma Appel Community Trust, the annual Bluma Lecture will feature discussion, discourse and debate by groundbreaking thinkers from around the world.

Broadening access to Toronto's cultural life

A standing ovation goes to Sun Life Financial, which pledged to continue its sponsorship of the Toronto Public Library's successful Sun Life Financial Museum + Arts Pass (MAP) program through 2015. With MAP, the Library broadens Torontonians' access to the city's cultural life - particularly in neighbourhoods and communities where access to arts and culture may be limited. Library users borrowed nearly 78,000 MAP passes in 2013, with the most popular venues being the Toronto Zoo, the Royal Ontario Museum and the Ontario Science Centre.

Young Voices - a cultural gateway for youth

Thanks to Deloitte and to the generosity of the Daniels family in honour of their mother Norine Rose, Toronto Public Library's Young Voices Program grew by leaps and bounds in 2013.

Young Voices is a suite of programs offered by Toronto Public Library to encourage creative expression in Toronto's youth. The programs include the annual Young Voices Magazine of Teen Writing and Art, a full-day offering of writing workshops at the annual Young Voices Writers' Conference, art and writing workshops held across the city throughout the year and, in 2013, the first ever month-long term of a Young Voices Electronic Writer in Residence.

Thanks to donor support, the program engaged 70 per cent more teens than in 2012, and drove a 39 per cent increase in magazine submissions. In the process, it provided young Torontonians with one of Canada's largest, most open and diverse opportunities for teen literary and artistic expression. In addition to encouraging creative expression, Young Voices allowed youth to explore potential career paths and helped them to develop collaborative, leadership and social skills under the guidance of some of Toronto's most respected and cutting-edge poets, novelists and visual artists.

Expanding Special Collections to preserve Canada's history

Thanks to the thoughtful gift from the Metcalf family through The Robert F. Reid Special Collections Acquisition Fund, Toronto Public Library's special collections department expanded its already remarkable collection of images and items that document life in Toronto and Canada.

With this funding, the Library purchased 15 paintings of the contemporary urban landscape, including Toronto landmarks, architecture and streetscapes. It added to its historical art collection with the purchase of a scrapbook of original sketches and watercolours documenting life in the 1830s and undertook the restoration of several significant pieces in its existing collection.

Adding to its special collections in the arts, stage and costume design, the Library purchased a series of designs by Astrid Jensen and costumes by William Schmuck and Cameron Porteous.

The fund also allowed the Library to make significant additions to the Baldwin Room Collection of Canadiana, including an extremely rare dictionary of Inuit and English words prepared for the Franklin expedition.

Birks Family Foundation supports Native People's Collections

The Birks Family Foundation kindly provided a $20,000 gift to enhance the Native Peoples Collection at the Toronto Reference Library. The gift enabled librarians to select titles and topics previously under-represented in the collections, including scholarly works, political and cultural analyses, books on cultural heritage and Aboriginal languages, and CDs and DVDs of Pow Wow music.

TD Bank Group supports Asian Heritage and Black History Months

In February 2013, with generous funding from TD Bank Group, Toronto Public Library celebrated its seventh Black History Month. About 2,000 people attended a total of 36 programs and events in branches across the city. Programming included music, theatre, history, story-telling and book readings for adults, youth and children. The Rita Cox Black and Caribbean Heritage Endowment Fund also supports the Black and Caribbean collection. Toronto Public Library's Black and Caribbean collection contains more than 16,000 items located in four library branches: Malvern, Maria A. Shchuka, Parkdale and York Woods.

Thanks to TD's support, Toronto Public Library celebrated its tenth Asian Heritage Month in May 2013 with events at branches across the city. A series of '4 Homelands Festivals' celebrated different aspects of Asia. There were also several pan-Asian festivals, two stand-alone Chinese cultural festivals and a community Asian arts fusion festival at the Palmerston branch, among many other in-branch programs. In total, more than 3,000 people attended 46 events.

Branches and Spaces

The Barbara Frum branch.

Celebrating 100 years at Bloor/ Gladstone

A generous donation from the Estate of John Korhonen funded a new KidsStop at the Bloor/Gladstone branch. The addition was part of a major renovation completed just in time for the branch's centenary celebration in 2013. When it was built in 1913, Bloor/Gladstone was the largest library branch in Canada.

Centenary celebrations included a children's storytime featuring stories from the past 100 years, neighbourhood walking tours, events for teens, local author readings and an all-day birthday party. A Foundation-led Bloor/Gladstone Centenary Project raised funds through the community to purchase additional components for the branch's new KidsStop.

Barbara Frum renovations completed in 2013

Refurbishments to the Barbara Frum Branch were completed in 2013 thanks to a generous $100,000 gift from the late Dr. Murray Frum and family. The improvements will attract users to refreshed spaces, display collections more attractively and effectively, and enhance access to electronic services. The refurbishment also included new shelving, furniture and carpeting for the adult and teen spaces and the computer area, as well as new seating for the branch's large auditorium.

Librarian Gwen Liu's legacy lives on at the Northern District branch

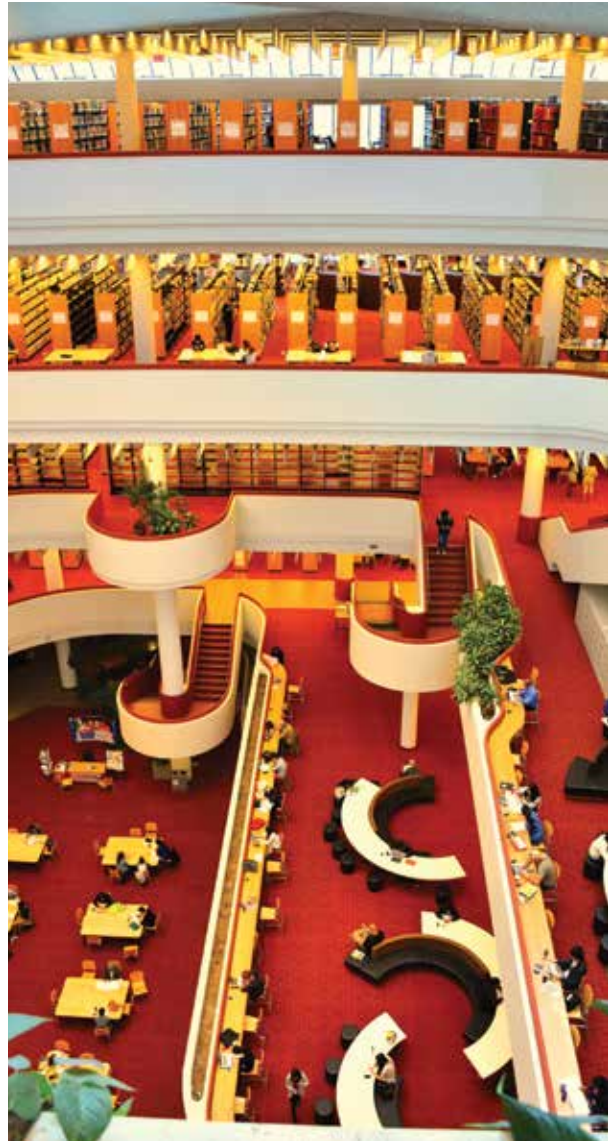

The Library received a very generous donation from Peter Liu in honour of his beloved wife Gwen, who sadly passed away in April 2013. Gwen Liu worked as a Toronto Public Library librarian for more than 30 years, dedicating her life to creating a whole new library experience for people in her community. Mr. Liu's gift helped to refurbish a large meeting space at Northern District branch used by community organizations and for cultural events. The gift also established the Gwen and Peter Liu Endowment Fund, which supports the Library's Chinese collections and programming.

The re:vitalized Toronto Reference Library comes to life

The Toronto Reference Library's transformation continued throughout 2013. Thanks to donors' generosity, the Toronto Public Library Foundation met and exceeded its fundraising goal with the re:vitalize fundraising campaign, which launched in 2009. Together, individual, corporate and foundation donors and our government partners gave $10.6 million toward the transformational project.

Library users have enthusiastically embraced the Toronto Reference Library's new spaces and enhanced services. Often, before the Library is even open, people arrive for early-start events in the Appel Salon, while others line up in the soaring entrance cube, waiting for the doors to open.

The branch's main floor atrium embodies the campaign's transformational vision. By day, it is a busy group-study and collaborative work space, but it can transform after dark into a theatre for library programs and events, a marketplace for the Toronto Comic Arts Festival or the setting for a candle-lit wedding ceremony.

The atrium of Toronto Reference Library.

The second-floor Bram & Bluma Appel Salon hosts job fairs, book festivals, awards ceremonies, corporate meetings and private receptions.

In the upper floors, individuals study and learn in the new flexible seating areas. Individuals and small groups work quietly in the translucent, free-standing new study pods that are scattered across three of the five floors. Groups gather in the Meet-Up, one of several new group-study areas that opened in 2013. The new space is perfect for collaborative study.

Other Ways Donors Made a Difference

Donors remember the Library in their wills

In 2013, the Toronto Public Library Foundation received more than $340,000 in bequests from thoughtful, forward-thinking donors who chose to remember the Library in their wills. These gifts enhanced Library collections, funded programs such as financial literacy and small business support, and supported the digitization of rare and valuable library collections so that they can be accessed from home and across the world.

Planned giving helps ensure the Library remains vital and relevant for generations to come, and allows donors to make a bigger impact than might be possible during their lifetimes. Some donors leave the Foundation a specific piece of property, while others give securities, cash or a percentage of their estates. Others have chosen to name the Toronto Public Library Foundation as the beneficiary of a life insurance policy, RRSP, RRIF, TFSA or trust.

Friends who choose to include Toronto Public Library in their wills are members of the Heritage Society. In 2013, this group of donors grew to more than 70 patrons.

An indispensable circle of support

In 2013, Literary Circle patrons donated more than $260,000 to the Toronto Public Library Foundation. These 126 donors represent an exceptionally generous group of supporters who demonstrate their commitment to Toronto's Library by making annual contributions of $1,000 or more.

The vital support of annual donors enables the Foundation to achieve more for the Library and the people who visit its 99 branches each year. As part of a community of Library champions, Literary Circle patrons enjoy exclusive author receptions and behind-the-scenes tours, an annual donor celebration event and a special Literary Circle patron library card.

In 2013, Literary Circle donors had the opportunity to meet acclaimed author Edward Rutherfurd, tour the stunning TD Gallery and, at the annual Literary Circle donor recognition evening, hear Cathy Marie Buchanan tell the story of how she was inspired to write The Painted Girls.

The young and culturally curious support Toronto Public Library

New Collection is a membership program for Toronto's literary lovers in their 20s, 30s and 40s, who are committed to supporting the work of one of the busiest urban public library systems in the world – Toronto Public Library. Since the program's inception in 2012, Toronto Public Library Foundation continues to attract the next generation of donors both as financial supporters and as ambassadors for Toronto's Library. New Collection's committed and diverse committee of 12 young professionals coordinated an engaging line-up of events, enhanced promotional efforts and developed a new event, Hush Hush. Through these efforts, New Collection grew to 65 members, doubling its membership from 2012. Key highlights include: Cocktails and Conversation with Kelly Oxford, Conrad Black, Douglas Coupland, Richard Peddie and an exclusive Book Club with Ania Szado.

After-hours party stacks up big funds

In November 2013, a lively group of Library supporters broke all the rules (for all the right reasons) with an after-hours party in the stacks at the beautifully restored Bloor/Gladstone branch. Hosted by New Collection, the Hush Hush party raised more than $50,000 for the Toronto Public Library Foundation.

More than 300 guests enjoyed blaring music, oyster eating, temporary tattoo inking and even dancing “librarians.” TD Bank Group was the lead sponsor of the event; the other sponsors were Penguin Random House, Pizza Pizza and Industrial Alliance.

Spectacular gala raises $530,000 in support of Toronto Public Library

The Book Lover's Ball raised $530,000 in support of Toronto's Library in 2013. Presented by Sun Life Financial, the black-tie evening of literary discovery included dazzling novel-inspired entertainment and brought more than 500 book lovers together with more than 50 of Canada's top literary celebrities. The evening was hosted by Cityline's Tracy Moore and Melanie Ng. Notable guests included

Entertainment at The Book Lover's Ball.

Conrad Black, Arlene Dickinson, Lloyd Robertson and Amanda Lang.

Support from all sides - community groups raise funds for Toronto Public Library

The Toronto Public Library Foundation works with community-minded companies, organizations and individuals who choose to raise funds on the Library's behalf. In 2013, these included:

- Toronto Challenge, an annual charity walk/run, raised $7,000 in support of Home Library Service.
- The CBC Books Open House Festival brings together some of the most prominent writers, artists and thinkers to celebrate Canadian creativity and to engage in discussions about issues of social and political importance. This year's ticket sales raised close to $13,000 in support of the Toronto Public Library Foundation.

So much more: the Library's astounding economic impact

The University of Toronto study “So Much More: The Economic Impact of Toronto Public Library on the City of Toronto” determined that Torontonians receive $5.63 of value for every dollar that Toronto invests in its public library system.

Toronto Public Library commissioned the study by the Martin Prosperity Institute, part of the Rotman School of Management at the University of Toronto. The study found that Toronto Public Library provides a strong return on investment by providing services that enhance Toronto's competitiveness and prosperity and contribute to a better quality of life for everyone.

The report, funded by TD Bank Group and the Estate of Norman G. Hinton, calculated that the Toronto Public Library's total economic impact on the city of Toronto is $1 billion annually. The average value to those who use the Library is as much as $500 per person per year. On average, one open hour at any one of the Library's 99 branches generates $2,515 in benefits for the city of Toronto. With an average cost of $653 per open hour, the average benefit is almost four times the cost.

Thank you

We would like to recognize the following individuals, corporations, foundations, associations and community groups that generously gave between January 1, 2013 and December 31, 2013. We also wish to thank those donors who have chosen to remain anonymous.

Corporations, Foundations and Associations

The Foundation gratefully acknowledges the generous support of the following organizations that made financial gifts in support of Toronto's Library in 2013.

Special thanks to those corporations, foundations and service clubs who made new gifts and pledges of $25,000 or more in 2013. We are pleased to acknowledge and celebrate their exceptional support.

Canada Post Community Foundation

In 2013, Canada Post Community Foundation's commitment of $50,000 enabled Toronto Public Library to enhance the Fairview Branch through the development of a new KidsStop. A community hub, the Fairview branch offers many services and is very busy due to its proximity to Fairview Mall and public transportation. Many of its users are also families with small children who benefited from this new community space. KidsStop sites have been designed to engage and activate the imagination and sense of exploration and discovery for preschool children.

Friends of Toronto Public Library, North Chapter

In 2013, the Friends of Toronto Public Library, North Chapter celebrated 20 years of support to Toronto's Library. Through their volunteer-run bookstore, Book Ends, they supported the Library's Leading to Reading program at a record level of $73,000 in 2013. This donation brought their cumulative giving total over the past 20 years to more than $1 million. Leading to Reading provides children reading below grade level with the tools and opportunity to read to succeed.

Friends of Toronto Public Library, South Chapter

In 2013, the Friends of Toronto Public Library, South Chapter supported the Library's Grade 4 Outreach program, Story Time Outreach, Family Literacy Day and Toronto Reference Library literary programs. Their record contribution of $72,000 in 2013 was raised through Book Ends South, the volunteer-run bookstore at the Toronto Reference Library.

The Catherine and Maxwell Meighen Foundation

A committed partner since 1997, The Catherine and Maxwell Meighen Foundation made a remarkable gift of $60,000 to support the Toronto Public Library's Home Library Service and Bookmobiles. The family's generosity enables the Library to meet the growing and changing needs of Toronto's communities.

Sun Life Financial

Since 2007, Sun Life Financial has helped make the arts more accessible to all Torontonians through its generous support of the Sun Life Museum + Arts Pass (MAP) program at Toronto Public Library. This ongoing support – renewed again for 2013 – extends Torontonians’ access to the cultural life of the city. Anyone with a library card can borrow a free pass to experience Toronto’s cultural treasures. This is particularly appreciated in those neighborhoods and communities where access to arts and culture may be limited. In 2013, almost 80,000 MAP passes were borrowed across 99 Toronto Public Library branches.

RBC Foundation

In 2013, RBC Foundation made a gift of $40,000 that enabled the two After School Newcomer Hubs to remain operating. The Hubs run out of the Centennial and Sanderson branches and provide youth in these high-needs neighbourhoods with homework help and leadership opportunities.

TD Bank Group

In 2013, TD Bank Group continued their generous support of Toronto Public Library programs and services, collections and community spaces. Nowhere is TD’s commitment more evident than in the TD Summer Reading Club, an inclusive, bilingual program delivered by public libraries across Canada.

The program engages children during the summer months with in-branch programming that builds reading and pre-reading skills. It has instilled the joy of reading into a generation of children. Thanks to TD’s continued support, the program has continued to grow and thrive. TD Summer Reading Club has grown nationally, expanding first across the province of Ontario in 2001 and more widely across Canada in 2004. In 2013, over 30,000 young people took part in Toronto and 289,000 across Canada.

Individual Donors – the Literary Circle

Patrons of our Literary Circle program are a very special group of donors who demonstrate their commitment to Toronto's Library by making a yearly contribution of $1,000 or more to help make life-changing programs possible. The Foundation gratefully acknowledges and celebrates the exceptional generosity of the following donors who made gifts in 2013.

Special thanks to those individual donors who made new gifts and pledges of $10,000 or more in 2013. We are pleased to acknowledge and celebrate their exceptional and generous support.

Mercedes A. Azárraga in honour of Eduardo A. Azárraga Jr.

In 2013, Mercedes A. Azárraga made a generous gift in honour of her brother, Eduardo A. Azárraga Jr. to support the on-going revitalization of the Toronto Reference Library. Her gift helped Toronto Public Library recreate the Toronto Reference Library as Toronto's foremost public centre for life-long learning, the exchange of ideas and community engagement.

George A. Fierheller

George A. Fierheller understands Toronto's Library branches are vital community hubs. His generous annual gift of $10,000 supports the immediate funding priorities of 2013. Annual contributions, like his, allowed the Library to enhance community programs such as: Ready for Reading for pre-schoolers; Small Business Inc. for budding entrepreneurs; and the new Digital Innovation Hubs at Toronto Reference Library and Fort York branch.

Estate of Norman G. Hinton

In 2013, the Foundation received the final disbursement from the Estate of Norman G.

Hinton. Norman G. Hinton left a generous bequest in his will of over $1,000,000 to support resources at Toronto Public Library. During his life he used the Library extensively to manage his finances and investments and was thankful for what it had meant to him and what it could mean to others. His bequest will support services and resources in the areas of financial literacy and small business development at the Library for years to come.

Peter Liu in honour of Gwen Liu

In honour of his late wife's dedication to the Library, Peter Liu made a $100,000 donation to the Toronto Public Library Foundation. This generous gift supported the refurbishment of a meeting space at the Northern District branch which is used by a wide variety of groups throughout the year, including Delisle Youth Services, IODE Canada, Canadian Children's Book Centre and local community organizations. The new meeting space will be named The Gwen Liu Meeting Room. A portion of this gift also established the Gwen and Peter Liu Endowment Fund. This Endowment Fund - which will grow over time - will support the Library's Chinese collections and programming, a priority of the Library.

Estate of Jeannine Locke Reilly

The late Jeannine Locke Reilly was a staunch supporter of Toronto Public Library during her life. She understood and appreciated the significant influence that the Library has on the people of our city and decided to continue her support through a bequest in her will. With her gift, the Foundation provided funding for some of the Library's highest priority needs: helping young and old, students, parents, newcomers, jobseekers and the ever-curious to read, learn, connect and create.

Estate of Thomas Taylor

Thomas Taylor was a great believer of giving back to his community. In his will he left legacies to 11 charities, including the Toronto Public Library. His bequest will support the purchase and preservation of books and other materials. Part of his gift will digitize more than 1,000 items from the Library's Osborne Collection of Early Children's Books. This collection spans rare and notable items from literary classics to popular culture; from cuneiform tablets to modern books. The digitization of this collection will enable world-wide access to this wonderful collection.

Judith Wilder

Judith Wilder generously supported conservation projects at the Osborne Collection of Early Children's Books through a gift to the Friends of the Osborne and Lillian H. Smith Collections. These conservation projects enhance Toronto Public Library's resources for the care of rare and notable books and art, making important items accessible to the public for study and enjoyment.

The Carnegie Societies

The Carnegie Societies honour the Foundation's most generous donors. Named to reflect the rich history of Toronto Public Library, the Societies recognize those individuals who have cumulatively given $25,000 or more since 1997. We also recognize organizations that have cumulatively given $50,000 or more. Special thanks to Society members who make annual contributions to a variety of programs and projects across the Library.
