TORONTO, March 26, 2018 – Biblio Bash, Toronto's must-attend gala for library lovers and city builders returns on Thursday, April 26, 2018. The Toronto Public Library Foundation's (TPLF) annual fundraiser, presented by TD, will raise vital funds for Toronto Public Library (TPL), transform the Toronto Reference Library into a glamorous black-tie soirée showcasing the 21st century library, and bring together Canada's top authors, local philanthropists, entrepreneurs, arts and culture supporters, donors, business executives and fans of Toronto Public Library.

This intimate evening, led by Biblio Bash Committee Chair Victoria Webster, will celebrate the world's busiest public library system and shine a spotlight on TPL programs and services that empower vulnerable youth in Toronto neighbourhoods. The Toronto Public Library is so much more than books, and in 2017, Biblio Bash raised over $600,000 to support digital innovation at the highest needs branches. This year's ambitious fundraising goal is to surpass 2017, with money raised on the gala night to provide Toronto youth with such essentials as: free access to quality after-school homework help, technology, digital and financial literacy learning, and opportunities to participate in enriching programs that help develop social, creative, life and leadership skills.

"Last year, TPL Youth Hub visits doubled from the year before, so it's very apparent to our Library staff that there's an ongoing need for these dedicated youth-focused initiatives," commented City Librarian, Vickery Bowles. "Toronto Public Library genuinely contributes to positive outcomes for youth with a strong emphasis on personal development, equitable access and learning. The Library is both a space where young people are welcome and supported, and it's because of the tremendous support of Biblio Bash donors, sponsors and volunteers that we will be able to invest even further in these areas of TPL."

"TD is proud to support Biblio Bash 2018 and work with the Toronto Public Library to make a difference in our communities," says Andrea Barrack, Vice President, Global Corporate Citizenship, at TD. "A library is an exciting place where children, families and citizens can enjoy the magical world of books, but it is more than that. It is a place of inspiration, of inclusion, and of belonging. I am thrilled to recognize on behalf of TD the outstanding work the Toronto Public Library does to support at-risk youth through its various programs and services."

More than 470 guests will attend the sold-out event hosted by Canadian author, investor and television personality David Chilton. Each table will feature a Canadian author host with the list of 43 authors including Giller Prize winners Michael Redhill (Bellevue Square, 2017) and Esi Edugyan (Half-Blood Blues, 2011); New York Times Bestseller Shari Lapena (The Couple Next Door); Toronto chef and cookbook author Matt Dean Pettit; novelist, screenwriter and journalist Heather O'Neill (Lullabies for Little Criminals); Order of Canada recipients, author Joy Kogawa (Obasan), author Thomas King (The Inconvenient Indian) and children's poet Dennis Lee (Alligator Pie); and acclaimed author and playwright Ann-Marie MacDonald.
