“It’s never been more important to stand up and speak out for intellectual freedom and to ensure voices, especially those of marginalized and equity-deserving communities, are not shut down.”

City Librarian, Toronto Public Library

The Book Sanctuary Collection

In 2023, TPL declared its 100 branches and online spaces as book sanctuaries, recommitting the library to protect and defend Torontonians’ rights to freely access a broad range of diverse materials – including those that have been challenged or banned. Toronto Public Library created a Book Sanctuary collection consisting of 50 adult, teen and children’s books that have been challenged, censored or removed from a public library or school in North America. The collection isn’t comprehensive but highlights the different types of content and subjects that have been challenged or banned over the past several years.

TPL is also hosting critical conversations that explore what’s at stake when intellectual freedom is threatened. The series is supported by an Anonymous Lead Donor, and supported, in part, by Chris M. Reid.

Letter from our CEO

William Scott, PhD
Chief Executive Officer
Toronto Public Library Foundation

Drawing from my experience as an educator, I know that a good interaction can make all the difference in someone's day, or even life. Libraries and librarians are a testament to this, helping patrons feel humanized, welcomed and healthier, whether it be through a simple greeting or helping with a specialized ask. What I have learned over the past year is that we are stronger together, and Toronto Public Library is the glue.

The function of public libraries expands far beyond just books, and our growing community of donors recognize that a thriving Toronto Public Library makes our city economically stronger and socially resilient. Our 100 branches serve as safe community hubs. Free programming helps ensure that the most vulnerable feel included. Exceptional staff provide invaluable engagement with children, teens and seniors. Vast collections of books, films and music keep Torontonians learning for life, connecting with culture, and enriching each other's relationships. Many of these critical initiatives are made possible thanks to Library donors and partners, and it motivates me and our team to do the work we do.

This year was ambitious and we are proud of the many outcomes. I thank you sincerely for all your support.

Letter from our Chair

Anne Maggisano, CFA
Board Chair
Toronto Public Library Foundation

What strikes me about the past year is how much has changed – at home in our city and globally – and how the Library proves itself to be nimble and necessary at every twist and turn. Toronto Public Library's spaces, services and programs are more relevant than ever, in the face of challenging economic and social trends that affect the wellbeing of us all, but especially those from marginalized groups. TPL is leading the way with ground-breaking solutions that benefit all residents, with programs such as the Social Services Team that brings experienced social workers into the welcoming setting of the Library to work with patrons in distress, and TPL's first-of-its-kind Sensory Room that's designed to engage and delight children with sensory processing needs.

TPL's commitment to inclusion and innovation is a beacon of hope in a city of exacerbating inequities. On behalf of the Board of the TPL Foundation, thank you for your tremendous support and belief in this important work, and for being an integral part of our donor community.

Financial Empowerment Services Initiative

Building resilience through financial confidence and success

Access to personal finance information and financial empowerment support is critical for many Torontonians, in particular, low-income individuals and families. TPL is working in partnership with community agencies, WoodGreen, North York Community House and Prosper Canada to connect Library customers with trained staff who can offer free, expert support and assist them with meeting their financial goals.

Thank you!

Social Services Team Pilot

Libraries are a critical link in the health and wellness of communities

The Library is a safe space for all. Guided by the voices of people with lived experience, and to promote an innovative model for crisis support, wellness and recovery, TPL began a partnership in 2023 with Gerstein Crisis Centre (GCC) to form the Social Services Team. This collaborative, on-site service is providing mental health and crisis supports to individuals accessing the Library. Through short-term counselling, expert support, resources and programs lead by GCC staff, the Library is servicing Torontonians where they are already welcomed and where they feel safe – in a library branch.

Low-barrier mental health and crisis supports with community partner, Gerstein Crisis Centre delivered in the first 14 months:

- ✓ Over 18,000 engagements
- ✓ 2,140 onsite interventions
- ✓ Over 6,000 attendees participating in over 900 events and workshops

Community Librarian with client

Sincere thanks

Azrieli Foundation makes $750,000 donation to Toronto Public Library

We are heartened by the inspiring commitment of the Azrieli Foundation and shared belief in the power of education to transform lives and accelerate success. This transformational gift made over three years, is a vital investment in some of Toronto's most vulnerable groups, primarily young adults and newcomers, and is supporting two vital initiatives at TPL:

Career Coaches in Residence

fills the gap in career navigational support services by providing critical resources, career advice, mentorship and job search assistance to younger adults, as they seek to enter or re-enter the workforce.

Learn more: tpl.ca/career-coaches-in-residence

Community Librarian for Newcomers

addresses the immediate needs of those who have recently made Toronto their home at their point of need, through skills training, digital literacy and increased access to Library resources and information.

Feeding Young Minds Initiative

Providing healthy snacks in After School Clubs

In response to the growing food security issues in Toronto, the Feeding Young Minds Initiative launched in 2023. TPL is now providing regular healthy food options at select branches during its child-focused After School Club programs, giving kids the fuel they need to succeed. The success of this past school year re-affirms the importance of this program.

- ✓ 30 TPL branches delivered 1,075 weekly After School Club programs and nutritious snacks
- ✓ 11 participating branches are located in Neighbourhood Improvement Areas (NIAs) and emerging NIAs
- ✓ 11,446 children participated in the After School Clubs program

After School at Albion branch

After School Clubs provide weekly opportunities where children can eat together, explore their interests, build new skills, and connect with their peers in safe spaces that encourage them to learn and grow.

We are grateful to Lead Donor, the Moez & Marissa Kassam Equity Fund, for their generous support of the program. With thanks to Supporting Donors, The Bennett Family Foundation, J.P. Bickell Foundation, Phil Cowperthwaite and Sue Hunter, Linda Dagg and Kenneth Wiener, and Adrian and Ange Rocca, for their commitment which is positively impacting Toronto's children.

A calming multi-sensory space for kids

Sensory Room

A special interactive space where kids of all abilities can learn and grow

Located at the S. Walter Stewart branch, and the first of its kind at TPL, the Sensory Room is a self-serve, child-led interactive space created for children with sensory processing needs. This bookable space is open to children of all abilities to enjoy. In the first six months of opening, the room has already seen over 700 bookings and welcomed more than 2,400 children and their families into the space.

Through consultation with community agencies, feedback from families, and research, the Library learned that specialized spaces such as the Sensory Room help children with sensory processing needs feel welcome to fully access the Library's services, collections and programs, which reduces social isolation and encourages community connections.

The specialized equipment in the room is designed to blend sights, sounds, texture and motion to soothe and stimulate the senses, and provide a relaxing environment that supports focus, self-regulation and communication so that kids are able to learn and connect with others more easily.

In loving memory of Jae Blue, the Sensory Room was made possible through the generous support of Jae's family and friends.

Special thanks to TD Bank Group for their support through the TD Ready Commitment Connecting our City's Vibrant Culture

For over a decade, Heritage Programming at TPL has grown in scope and impact. Each program series, which includes Black History (February), Asian Heritage (May) and Indigenous Celebrations (June/October), has a unique cultural identity that fosters authentic learning and engagement, and is a forum for audiences to participate in some of the most important conversations taking place in our city today. Over 7,000 people attended Heritage programs and events last year, which included author talks and lectures, panel discussions, cooking demonstrations, storytelling and other cultural celebrations. This unique suite of programming at the Library appeals to a broad range of people who embrace diversity, seek engagement with their community and enjoy learning about our shared culture and history.

“My favourite thing about the Library is that they have these themed months. Like Black History Month and Hindu History Month. Then I read the books that they recommend for that theme. I learn about other cultures and sometimes even my own, as I am Hindu myself.”

– Tiffany, 14 years, 2023 Social Impact Study

North York Central Library

Receives bequest from Salvatore and Marion Brancaccio

This generous legacy gift will support the renovation of the Teen Zone to incorporate a full suite of youth services, Youth Hub equipment, collections, and vital programming for teens at this branch. As avid library users and as a former teacher (Marion), the Brancaccio family saw firsthand the impact of the Library in their community, and decided to give back.

social impact study

We know the Library has tremendous value for all who use it. We also know the importance of accountability, and over the years, TPL has demonstrated the value of the Library in terms of economic benefit.

We asked ourselves:

What if we could measure the impact Toronto Public Library has on the lives of people in our city?

Now we have.

Measuring the Social Impact of TPL

A ground-breaking study developed by TPL and innovative Danish firm Seismonaut to understand the value of the Library in people's lives. This project was made possible thanks to a generous donation from Richard and Joan Boxer.

Staff at Albion branch

social impact study

The study found that Toronto Public Library is:

An incredible force to combat social isolation – in a lonely city, it's a place where everyone is welcome, and different communities and viewpoints converge.

A place for people to better themselves, where they can tap into programs, services and collections that expand their world and help them achieve their goals.

A critical portal to resources and services for the most vulnerable people in our city, who cannot access them anywhere else.

I co-founded the Toronto Public Library Foundation because the Library is a tremendous asset to our city, worthy of philanthropic investment. Over the past 25+ years, we have continued to grow our generous donor community. Now, we have an evidence-based study that shows the true impact of the Library's work. Joan and I were thrilled to contribute to this innovative study and are proud to count ourselves as donors.

Record-breaking fundraiser

Biblio Bash raises over $1 million for Toronto Public Library

Toronto's library lovers joined business leaders, philanthropists and city builders on April 20th at the Toronto Reference Library for Biblio Bash, presented by Tricon Residential. Attended by 41 notable authors and over 450 guests, our sold-out black tie gala raised significant funds to support TPL's Leading to Reading program. Thank you to the Biblio Bash volunteer committee and our sponsors for helping us smash our fundraising goal.

For photos, news coverage, impact video and social media visit, bibliobash.ca or search #BiblioBash

Hosted by Journalist Farah Nasser, she commented,

Raising a record-breaking $1 million for TPLF, I was honoured to host Biblio Bash 2023. So much fun spending time with old (and new) friends at the Biblio Hotel, but the pinch-me moment was a conversation with John Irving. Unforgettable.
